

CSGC Men's Competitions

1. We usually organise golf competitions on every Saturday and Sunday and occasionally on some weekdays (Midweek Medals/Stablefords and the Opening Cup).
2. To enter a competition, complete the Competition Entry Sheet (CES) in the Pro Shop and pay the entry fee, usually £3. In Pairs and Team events, all members must register. In all cases registration must be done prior to beginning the round.
3. You may also enter the Pro's 2s competition.
4. Take a scorecard and record your CES number on it as well as your name, the date, the competition name and your handicap.
5. After completion of your round, enter your score on the computer and, after you and your marker have signed it, post it through the slot adjacent to the computer terminal at the bottom of the stairs.
6. Results and handicap changes are published on the CSGC website and are also posted in the sleeves inside the changing room outside door.

Other points

Once you have begun your round you are not entitled to a refund of your entry fee unless the competition is cancelled by the club – this will normally only happen due to the course being unplayable (see below) for the whole of the time of the competition.

Only the Pro, Head Greenkeeper (or Deputy), Manager or designated CSGC committee member may close the course in inclement weather. This will be done by sounding a klaxon. In this case, entry fees may be refunded if play does not resume later in the day.

At any time during a round you may decide not to continue playing if you believe that it is either too dangerous (lightning) or the conditions prevent you from playing (flooded greens). Bad weather itself is not a good reason for discontinuing play; in such circumstances play must continue without undue delay.

If you have to leave the course due to adverse weather conditions, mark your ball position so that you are able to return as soon as conditions allow.

Players are expected to play a full round unless all players agree to leave the course early.

Clive Reynolds

Competitions Secretary